Description:

The decorative rock made of fiberglass-reinforced plastic is particularly light compared to real stones and is used wherever real rocks are too heavy: for example, in scenery construction and in room or shop window designs. Its hollow interior also makes it ideal as a cover for sockets, transformers or for pond pumps and filters outdoors. During production, special emphasis was placed on a natural color gradient of the imitation stone. Slight deviations in dimensions, structure and color are possible, as with real boulders.
