Description:

When the undead rise from their graves, ghosts and ghouls appear, the gates between the world of the living and the dead are opened. Together with carved pumpkins, Grim Reaper is one of the typical symbols for Halloween and should not be missing from any decoration.

In this animated standing figure from Europalms, the bone man has dressed up as a monk with a black hooded cowl. Over his habit, which is held together with a rope, there is also a tattered stole made of coarse mesh material. In his left hand he holds a jute sack padded with cotton wool. With his right hand stretched out wide, he seems to want to reach for visitors, while he moves his upper body back and forth. Red glowing eyes and loud groans complete the creepy effect.

The animation of the hanging figure is activated by integrated microphone or wired manual control. Please ensure sufficient distance to other objects before commissioning, as the figure moves independently.
